

Strapster

Abstract

The Strapster is primarily some reinforced fabric, like canvas, nylon, leather, or suede of varying lengths that hangs over the shoulder. This fabric that hangs over the shoulder can be made of most any fabric and can include velcro to adjust the length of the strap. There are two holes at either ends of fabric. The holes are either reinforced or not reinforced with metal loops like a grommet. Through each hole there will be one or more rings of varying size (i.e. like metal shower curtain rings or a keyring). These rings can be used to hold clothing hangers or hooks. The clothing hangers or hooks will hold clothing or other articles that can be carried on a clothing hanger or hook which will weight down the strap causing it to stay on your shoulder
